

AROUND ELDRITCH CORNERS

STORIES BY CHRISTINE MORGAN

Christine Morgan's Cthulhu Mythos and Lovecraftian cosmic horror come to life in this arcane volume. With tales ranging from the humorous to the horrific, Around Eldritch Corners would be sure to make H. P. Lovecraft shudder.

With strange aeons... where twin suns sink and towers rise behind the moon... in dark and lonely places when the stars are right... from the deadly light amidst black seas of infinity... unto a world which now trembles...

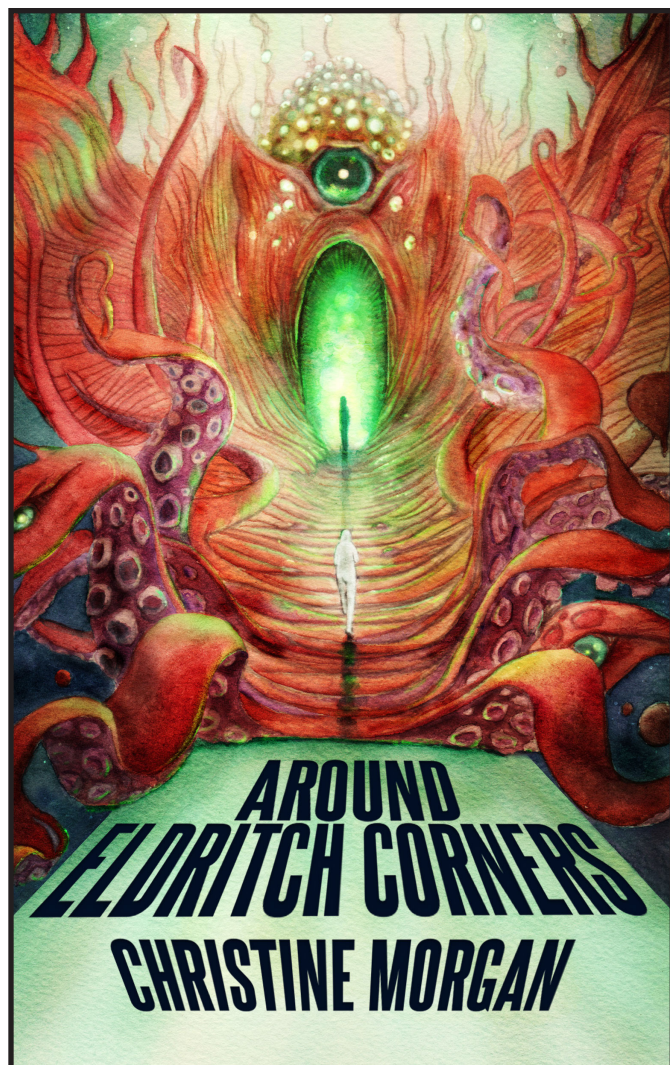

Yes, it's cosmic, it's mythos, it's Lovecraftian/Chamberlainian, it's overwrought language and indescribable horrors. But it's also twisted takes and irreverent pastiches, with weird kids and lovelorn sequels. It's ancient times, different histories, and distant futures. It's cats and cults and candles, odd architecture, mysterious tomes.

It's a collection of sixteen stories by Splatterpunk Award-winning author Christine Morgan, inviting you to take a peek...

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

CHRISTINE MORGAN now resides in the California high desert, at her father's rustic and remote homestead, after several recent difficult life-upheavals. There, she's focusing on writing, editing, and reviewing, as well as continuing to dabble in weird crafts and baking. Her bedroom is dinosaur-themed, her bathroom shark-themed, and she spends most of her time getting bossed around by cats. Visit her online at christinemariamorgan.wordpress.com.
